GETTING STARTED

The rule of 168.

There are only 168 hours in the week, and you need to choose wisely where you spend them. By engaging our business to help you with your financial affairs we are confident you will have more time to spend doing things you like to do, with the people they enjoy spending time with, giving you the peace of mind that your financial affairs are being looked after by specialists in their field. Many of our clients are intellectually capable of managing their affairs themselves, but they simply choose not to.

Step 1

Initial Consultation

Investing the time to get to know you, listening to your story and what is important to you.

Step 2

Financial Roadmap Preparation

Your Financial Roadmap will outline the state of your financial affairs right now, identify areas where we can add value to your current position and providing a fee for the work required.

Step 3

Development of Financial strategy

Prioritising where to commence work we will outline our recommendations in a Statement of Advice to discuss, refine as well as assist implementing any changes required.

Step 4

Progress meetings

When it comes to achieving your financial goals, ongoing success requires accountability and the ability to assess an evolving landscape in order to make informed decisions to adjust your current course accordingly.

OUR ADVICE METHODOLOGY

We break down our advice into 3 distinct areas which we consider to be inter-related. Each area plays a pivotal role in providing you with the best probability of reaching your goals, while mitigating risk on the journey.
